Bushwick Country Club

Don't let the name fool you: This bar is far from being any high roller exclusive country club. If you'd prefer mini-golf to be a side activity accompanied by a night of drinking in Brooklyn, the ironically named Bushwick Country Club is a homey-feeling bar with a comforting atmosphere, which also happens to have an outdoor mini-golf course. This spot doesn't have the most creatively designed course, for sure. However, the food and drinks easily top the other options on this list. You'll also get the chance to interact with some locals, getting a better idea of what it means to be from Brooklyn than most other places can give. The club is located at 618 Grand Street, one building off from the corner of the block.

Adventurer's Family Entertainment Center

Out of all the options for mini-golf in Brooklyn, Adventurer's Park is where you're most likely to spend a whole day. The Park is more of an amusement park than just a mini-golf course, filled to the brim with rides for young kids. Similarly, you'll find that the mini-golf course is very simple and cute, like a child's playroom. While not a great option for a date, the Adventurer's Family Entertainment Center is a perfect place to bring a kid younger than ten years old. It can be found at 1824 Shore Parkway.

Open sporadically. See their calendar for more information.

Summary

With so many options for mini-golf in Brooklyn available, it can be hard to pick just one to go to! If you only have time to go to one, considering who you plan to bring and how long you plan to stay can be a tremendous help in deciding.

The Adventurer's Park or Laser Bounce are great places to bring your family for a couple of hours, that'll leave a treasured memory with young kids. In contrast, Pixar Putt and Putting Green Minigolf are much faster experiences, perfect for planning more than one activity in a day.

If you want the full mini-golf experience, with a stunning theme and no punches pulled, Shipwrecked's beautiful decorations, lighting, and atmosphere are hard to beat.
